Description

In National History Honors society, we recognize and value how different the entire world looked throughout time and how each isolated event could change the course of the world forever. Our club is rooted in knowledge and curiosity, a childlike wonder paired with an old soul's reflection and wisdom. We will be exploring anything history through volunteering at any history-based event or organization in the community, watching award winning movies, and especially having passionate debates and discussions. We are committed to helping our members excel in school through study sessions and volunteer opportunities! History really does repeat itself. We need people like you to help us understand all of the history already written, so we can then write our own.
