

Life Services Toolkit

Timely and compassionate support services for Group Life members and beneficiaries

When you give your employees access to Group Life insurance, you're offering more than protection from financial hardship in the event of a death. A Group Life policy from The Standard† includes a package of services to help insured employees and their beneficiaries make important decisions now and for the future.

The Standard has partnered with Bensinger, DuPont & Associates (BDA), a leading provider of assistance programs, to help insured employees and their beneficiaries address important life matters. Insured employees have access to comprehensive online resources. Beneficiaries can consult experts by phone or in person, and obtain other helpful information online.

Life Services Toolkit resources are automatically available to those insured by Life insurance plans from The Standard. Life insurance beneficiaries¹ can access services for 12 months after the date of death.
