

Countdown to Kindergarten

Before you know it, the first day of kindergarten will be here. This Countdown to Kindergarten activity pack will help your child with the transition to kindergarten.

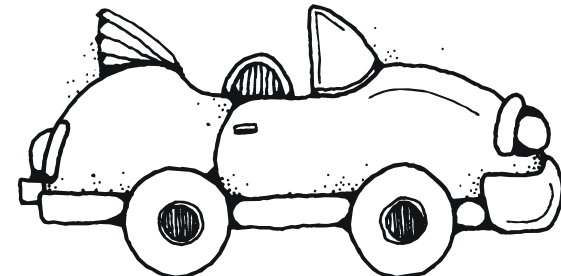

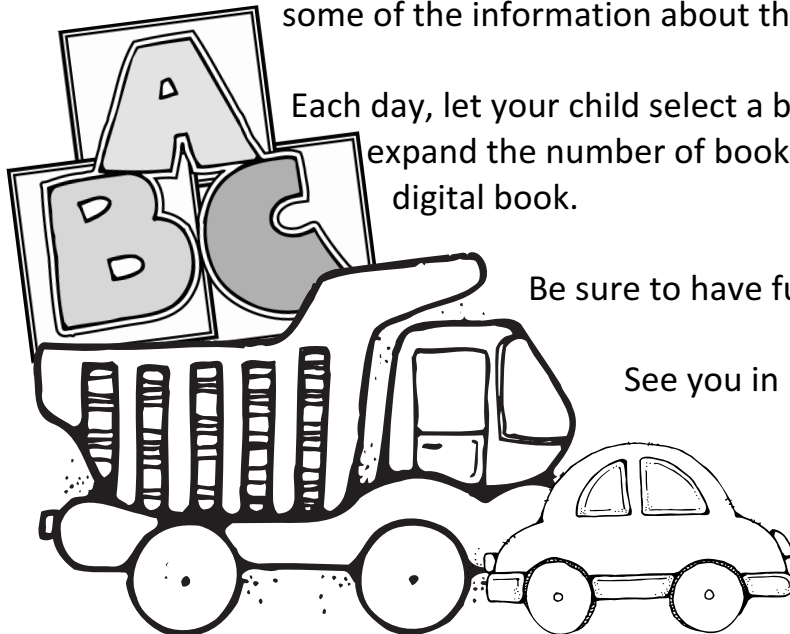

Each day, pick one of the learning activities to do with your child. The activities are quick and fun and use materials you can find in your home.

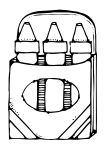

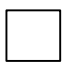

In addition, one of the most important things you can do is read to your child and talk together about what is happening in the story as you read. Help your child look at the pictures to understand the story. See if your child knows how to turn pages as you move through the story. Nonfiction books are a great way to learn about science and social studies. You can talk about the pictures and share some of the information about the topic.

Each day, let your child select a book for you to read aloud. Visit your local library to expand the number of books your child has access to. Or go online and read a digital book.

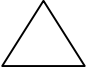

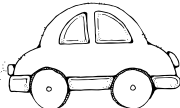

Be sure to have fun with the activities...

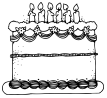

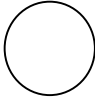

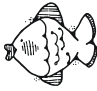

See you in Kindergarten!

8 Things to Do With Play-Dough

- Have your child roll the play-dough into logs to make letters, numbers, and shapes.
- Let your child play with the dough — squeezing, rolling, pinching, and pulling it to strengthen small hand muscles that help with writing.
- Tell your child a number between 1 and 10 and have him/her make the same number of play-dough balls.
- Help your child use the play-dough to create 3 dimensional sculptures such as trees, people, and animals. Help your child imagine what shapes to use to make the sculptures.
- Make a group of play-dough balls between 1 and 10. Have your child make more, less, or the same number of balls as you.
- You and your child make characters out of the play-dough. Then use the characters to act out a story.
- Gather materials from around the house and yard such as a fork, shell, pinecone, leaf, feather, and beads. Press the objects into the play-dough to create a design. Talk about the designs.
- Roll the play-dough into a log. Use it to measure things around the house. Find things that are longer than the log and shorter than the log.

9 Things to Do With Magnetic Letters

- Encourage your child to play with the letters on the refrigerator or on table. Playing with letters allows children to learn more about how they look.
- Have your child sort letters in a variety of ways — letters with long sticks, letters with circles, letters with tunnels, letters with dots, letters with slanted sticks, and letters with short sticks.
- Put the letters in the order of the alphabet. Then have your child point to them and sing the alphabet song.
- A child's name is the most important word. Have your child make his/her name several times, mixing up the letters, putting the letters in order again and checking them with a written name card.
- Have your child sort letters by color. For example, find all the red letters and then name them.
- Using the alphabet chart, have your child match the magnetic letters to the letters on the chart.
- Have your child line up the letters randomly and then name them from left to right.
- Match uppercase and lowercase letters.
- Have your child pick a letter and then name something that begins with that letter.
