

LET'S TALK ABOUT RACE

An educational series for North Shore families, friends, and teachers.

*Teachers can receive general component points for attending.

A training series hosted by the North Shore Elementary PTA about race and racism, how it affects almost every aspect of American life, and some guidance on how to have honest conversations about it.

For both people who are white and people of color, you'll walk away from this training with the skills to engage in clear, constructive, and confident dialogue with each other and around issues of race. You'll also learn tools that will help you to talk more easily to the children in your lives about race and racism.

Let's Talk About Race is for North Shore parents, guardians, friends and teachers.
