3. What social issue(s) may students address through community service work at your organization?
SJWAA does not receive financial or service assistance from Pinellas County or any other city government. Therefore, in order to maintain the organization and keep the fields operational, we rely on volunteers, sponsorships and fundraising to sustain the complex. The SJWAA Complex provides youth sports for soccer and baseball and serves over 1,000 youth each year. Volunteering services at SJWAA include assisting with field maintenance, assisting with the concession stand as a fundraiser, and stormwater maintenance projects. Student volunteerism, especially from players at our complex, promotes responsibility by being actively involved in maintaining the fields on which they play and helps ensure the entire complex can function. We also have stormwater projects where volunteers work on cleaning out debris from the ditches to aid the flow of water, reduce the likelihood of mosquito infestations and reduce incidents of flooding at the complex. Assisting at our concession stand contributes to our fundraising, which in turn pays for maintenance and utility services for the complex. Without volunteers at SJWAA, our complex would not be able to provide these sports leagues to the community.
