Key Strategies

The core instructional and monitoring strategies included in our action plans are:

- Provide in-class modeling and standards-based exemplars to help scholars self-learn and self-assess their progress toward the standard
- Provide quarterly data checks with scholars to ensure they understand the standard which then can provide drive deeper learning
- Use research based strategies to “release the learning” to the scholars.
- Provide quarterly data chats with instructors to ensure state standards are taught with fidelity using support and enrichment opportunities
- Align lesson plans, learning targets, and assessments to state standards

Professional Development

The professional development efforts this year include an expansion of the Marzano frameworks with a focus on the alignment of lesson plans, learning goals and targets, and assessments to state standards. We also have PLC’s who will be conducting data chats to review scholar work samples. This will guide the conversation on how to differentiate instruction and provide supports or enrichment. Specific subject area professional development will be offered to help guide instructors to provide rigorous instructional strategies.

Parent Engagement

Parent engagement efforts will provide a focus on how to support families as they guide their scholars throughout their high school years. We are developing and implementing a “parent university” through our PTA to help our families with timely information.
